By order,

A. N. LAL,

State of Ajmer.

Ajmer, the 13th February 1950

No. 82/49-LSG.—Whereas under this Administration Order No. A/12-62 dated the 28th February 1950 the industrial dispute between the Krishna Mills Ltd., Mahalakshmi Mills Ltd., and Edward Mills Ltd., and their employees as represented by the Textile Labour Union, the Rashtriya Mill Mazdoor Sangh and the Employees Association, Beawar, was referred to the Industrial Tribunal consisting of a single member namely Mr. T. Ramabhadran, I.C.S., District Judge, Ajmer.

And whereas the services of Mr. T. Ramabhadran, I.C.S. the aforesaid member having no longer been available, Mr. Dwijendra Nath Roy, District Judge, Ajmer was appointed a member of the Industrial Tribunal and he has given the award as shown in the annexure hereto.

Now, therefore, in exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (2) of section 15 read with sub-section (3) of section 19 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Chief Commissioner makes the following order and directs with reference to section 17 of the said Act that the award be published in the Gazette of India, Part II-A.

The award made by the said Tribunal shall bind the mills and their employees aforesaid as specified therein and shall remain in force for a period of one year with effect from 11th March 1949.

ANNEXURE

Before Mr. D. N. Roy, District Judge, Ajmer Merwara Industrial Tribunal.

Reference:—No. A/12-62 of 28th February 1949.

The employees of the Krishna Mills Ltd., the Mahalakshmi Mills Ltd., and the Edward Mills Ltd., Beawar.

Represented by the Textile Labour Union,

Rashtriya Mill Mazdoor Sangh

and

Employees' Association, Beawar

Versus

The owners of the Krishna Mills Ltd.,

Mahalakshmi Mills Ltd.,

and

Edward Mills Ltd., Beawar.

This dispute has been referred under the Industrial Disputes Act (No. XIV of 1947) between the employ of the three Mills situate at Beawar, namely, the Krishna Mills Ltd., the Mahalakshmi Mills Ltd., and the Edward Mills Ltd., as represented by the Textile Labour Union, the Rashtriya Mill Mazdoor Sangh and the Employees' Association, Beawar, on the one side and the Proprietors of the three Mills on the other under a Notification No. A/12/62, dated the 28th of February 1949 by the Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwara. Claims and Written statements were filed before this Tribunal and various issues were settled on the 15th of June 1949 and evidence was recorded but the two preliminary issues, which are as follows, have been argued before me:—

- (1) Whether reference of the dispute to this Industrial Tribunal is illegal and ultra vires ? Can this question be raised by the Mill owners ?
- (2) Whether the notification of reference is defective in that it does not specify the matters in dispute which have to be settled by this Tribunal ? Is the reference improper and was it not legally issued ?

2. Before I proceed to examine the question raised in these two preliminary issues, I shall briefly dwell upon the notifications by which the Industrial Tribunal was created at Ajmer and by which the reference in question was made. Under the provisions of Section 7 of the Industrial Disputes Act (No. XIV of 1947) read with the Government of India Labour Notification No. LR-1(9) of the 1st of July 1947, the Chief Commissioner of Ajmer-Merwara, issued Notification No. A/12/62, dated the 29th of September 1948 by which he was pleased to constitute an Industrial Tribunal with headquarters at Ajmer consisting of a single member, namely,

Mr. T. Ramabhadran, I.C.S., District Judge, Ajmer-Merwara, 'for adjudication of Industrial disputes that may be referred to it under Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act'. By another Notification No. A/12/62, dated the 28th of February 1949, issued by the Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwara, it was directed, as follows:—

"Whereas a dispute exists between the Krishna Mills Ltd., Mahalakshmi Mills Co., Ltd., and Edward Mills Co., Ltd., Beawar, on one side and the employees of these Mills as represented by the Textile Labour Union, Rashtriya Mill Mazdoor Sangh and Employees' Association, Beawar, on the other side, and whereas the Conciliation Officer, Ajmer-Merwara, has failed to bring about an amicable settlement of the dispute, and whereas on consideration of the report furnished by the Conciliation Officer under sub-section 4 of Section 12 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (No. XIV of 1947), the Chief Commissioner is satisfied that there is a case for referring the dispute to the Industrial Tribunal, a reference is hereby made to the District Judge, Ajmer-Merwara, in accordance with sub-section 5 of Section 12 of the said Act."

3. Before I come to deal with the report of the Conciliation Officer, I would mention here that at the time of the elevation of Mr. T. Ramabhadran temporarily to the post of the Judicial Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwara, the reference came up before his successor Mr. Gureharan Das. On the 5th of March 1949, a motion was made before him by counsel for all the parties to the effect that the appointment being personal and not by office, Mr. Ramabhadran alone was entitled to take proceedings and there should be a fresh notification regarding appointment of another independent person in his place, otherwise the proceedings taken by the then District Judge would be null and void. By the same motion, it was also urged that the reference made by the local Government by the notification aforesaid dated the 28th of February 1949 was not legal inasmuch as the reference should have been made to the Industrial Tribunal and not to the District Judge. Mr. Ramabhadran meanwhile reverted and when the motion was put before him, he overruled the first contention on the ground that now that he had reverted, the question did not arise at all.

He also overruled the second contention on the ground that the reference was prima facie proper. Mr. Ramabhadran subsequently went away on leave, and after I assumed charge of the office of the District Judge, a notification No. A/12/62, dated the 14th of May 1949 was issued by the Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwara, which was to come into effect from the 1st of May 1949, by which the earlier notification of the 29th of September 1949 referred to above was amended by substituting my name in the place of Mr. T. Ramabhadran, I.C.S. The notification dated the 28th of February 1949, has been assailed by the Mill owners on the following grounds:—

- (a) The reference was not made to the 'Industrial Tribunal' but to the 'District Judge, Ajmer-Merwara'.
- (b) The notification should have been under Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act and not under Section 12, sub-section 5 of that Act.
- (c) The notification does not specify that it was referred to the 'Industrial Tribunal for adjudication'.
- (d) The disputes which existed between the Mill Owners on the one hand and the employees on the other, were not scheduled or set out in detail in the form of an annexure to the notification with a view to let the Tribunal know as to what are the points on which the award is to be made.

4. With regard to the notification, dated the 14th of May 1949, it has been urged on behalf of the Mill Owners that it should have specified that this reference has now been transferred to me as Industrial Tribunal instead of specifying that my name should be substituted in place of Mr. T. Ramabhadran, and that an amendment to that effect should also have been made in the notification of the 28th of February 1949 as well.

5. A copy of the report under Section 12(4) of the Industrial Disputes Act made by the Labour Officer, Ajmer-Merwara, on the 9th of February 1949 is on the record. It says that in November 1947, the employees of the Textile Mills were agitating for increment in wages and dearness allowance etc., and during the conciliation proceedings then, the parties voluntarily referred their dispute to the arbitration of two gentlemen, who made an award which inter alia provided that the award would be binding on both the parties for a period of six months and shall continue to be binding after the expiry of the period aforesaid until the expiry of two months from the date on which notice in writing of an intention to terminate the settlement was given by one of the parties to the other party or parties to the settlement; that that award was made on 21st of March 1948; that the award was still in force, but the workers through their Unions have given notice that the award will not be binding on them from March 1949 and the three Unions have submitted fresh demands (which were flagged by the Conciliation Officer at Flags A, B and C respectively); that the Conciliation Officer started proceedings in conciliation but the talks ultimately failed and no amicable settlement could be arrived at because, according to the Conciliation Officer, the Unions pitched their demands very high and they were not within the capacity of the Mill Owners to pay. The Conciliation Officer in the concluding portion of his report said:—

"Hence with a view to settle the dispute, I suggest that the demands of the Unions at Flags A, B & C may kindly be referred to the Industrial Tribunal (District Judge, Ajmer-Merwara) for adjudication as is provided in Section 12(5) of the Industrial Disputes Act."

In the report of the Conciliation Officer, the demands of the employees as represented by the three Unions had not been specified in detail. The demands lodged by the three Unions with the Mill Owners and also before the Conciliation Officer, were subsequently obtained by this Tribunal from the Office of the Chief Commissioner when the matter came up for consideration. These demands are on the record. They were reiterated in the written statements submitted before the Tribunal by the three Unions and specifically answered to by the Mill Owners.

6. It may be mentioned here that after the arguments on the first two preliminary issues were heard by this Tribunal, the matter was listed for orders on the 26th of October 1949. In the night between the 23rd and the 24th of October 1949, a burglary was, however, committed at my house in which the burglars besides taking away cash and valuables, set fire to the present record, and other records were also placed there but the latter happily escaped. The whole of the present record had not however been consumed to ashes. Part of it is still available and has been put in a sealed cover. From the charred remains and from true copies of all papers furnished by the parties and their counsel, the entire record has been reconstructed and arguments have again been heard on the first two preliminary issues.

7. On behalf of the Mill Owners, it has been contended that there is no jurisdiction in the Industrial Tribunal to decide anything because, firstly, no dispute was referred to the Tribunal, and, secondly, the order dated the 28th of February, 1949, as worded, was only a reference to the 'District Judge', and the words in the preamble that 'the Chief Commissioner is satisfied that there is a case for referring the dispute to the Industrial Tribunal', did not constitute a reference because they did not form an operative part of the order. The first is admittedly a technical defence and is based on the wording of the order of the Chief Commissioner passed on the 28th of February 1949. In this connection it was pointed out that this order did not mention any 'industrial dispute', and did not also mention 'Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act', or 'that the dispute was referred for adjudication'. The notification dated the 28th of February 1949 is far from satisfactory and is not carefully drafted. The notification dated the 29th of September 1948 constituting the Industrial Tribunal at Ajmer under Section 7 of the Industrial Disputes Act consisting of one person only, namely, Mr. T. Ramabhadran 'for adjudication of industrial disputes that may be referred to it', was, however, a perfectly valid notification and no exception could, or has been taken against it. That there was an industrial dispute between the Mill Owners on the one hand and the employees on the other, is a fact which is not questioned. It is also not questioned that the Conciliation Officer tried to mediate but could not bring about a settlement. He submitted his report to the Local Government under the provisions of Section 12, sub-clause (4), of the Industrial Disputes Act. Sub-section (5) of Section 12 of that Act says that 'if, on a consideration of the report referred to in sub-section (4), the appropriate Government is satisfied that there is a case for reference to a Board or Tribunal, it may make such reference'. That is the procedure to be followed by these two functionaries under Chapter IV of the Act. The reference that has to be made to the Tribunal is, however, to be made under Section 10(1)(c) of the Act which says that 'if any industrial dispute exists or is apprehended, the appropriate Government may, by order in writing, refer the dispute to a Tribunal for adjudication'. Section 12 (5) of the Act is complementary to Section 10(1)(c). The former lays down the procedure for the reference. The latter confers the power under which reference of disputes to the Tribunal can be made. In the notification dated the 28th of February 1949, the Chief Commissioner stated that (a) a dispute exists between the parties (b) which could not be amicably settled by the intervention of the Conciliation Officer (c) and the Chief Commissioner after consideration of the report of the Conciliation Officer felt satisfied that there was a case for referring the dispute to the Industrial Tribunal. The notification, after laying down these particulars, concluded by saying that "a reference is hereby made to the District Judge". This operative portion is not satisfactory and is not carefully drafted. The first objection, which is taken against this order is that although the preamble says that there is a case for referring the dispute to the Industrial Tribunal, the operative part of the order refers it to the "District Judge". This defect in the order does not to my mind make the reference void. The order has to be read as a whole and it has to be determined whether in effect the order makes such a reference to the Tribunal. In my opinion, it does. In the operative part of the order, the reference made to the District Judge was rather unhappily worded. That unhappy feature was the result of the circumstance that the personnel of the Tribunal was constituted of a single member, namely, Mr. T. Ramabhadran, who happened to be the District Judge. But if the order is read as a whole, there can be hardly any doubt that the reference was to the Industrial Tribunal.

8. The second, third and fourth objections taken against the notification dated the 28th of February 1949 may be dealt with together. In support of these objections, certain notifications of the Bombay Government and of the Central Govt. in relation to other industrial disputes have been relied upon. Of them, those reported in Bombay Govt. Gazette, Part I-L, dated the 21st of July 1949, at Page 730 and at Bombay Gazette Extraordinary, Part I-L, dated the 20th of June 1949, Page 481B may be cited as example where the order of reference was passed in the following terms:—

'In exercise of the powers conferred by sub-section (i) of Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (No. XIV of 1947), the Governor of Bombay is pleased to refer the Industrial dispute between the Fazal Bhoy Nathoo & Co., Ltd., Bombay and the Workmen employed under it regarding the matters specified in Annexure 'A' for adjudication to the Industrial Tribunal consisting of Mr. I. G. Thakore, B.A., LL.B., Advocate (O.S.) constituted under Section 7 of the said Act under Govt. notification . . . .

9. As compared to these notifications, it has been urged in the present case that the notification there does not specify (a) that it was made under Section 10(1)(c), (b) does not mention that it was referred "for adjudication" and (c) does not specify any Annexure or Schedule containing the points at dispute. On the first of these points, the notification of the 28th of February 1949 has to be read along with the earlier notification of the 29th of September 1948. The earlier notification distinctly says that the Industrial Tribunal constituted under the Act shall "adjudicate" industrial disputes that may be referred to it. If therefore in the second notification the words 'adjudicate' or 'for adjudication' do not find place, it cannot be said that the reference has been for any object other than 'for adjudication'. The fact that Section 12, sub-clause (5), and not Section 10 (1)(c), is mentioned in the notification would not invalidate it. It has been laid down in Crown vs. Sugan Chand 1943 A.M.L.J. Part III, page 49, that the fact that wrong sections were quoted in the preamble does not invalidate the notification itself. In Seth Sobhag Mal Lodha vs. Kistoor Chand 1926 A.M.L.J. Supplement, page 41, it has been laid down that a Court must be taken to have done that which it could only do under the provisions of the law and that a mention of a wrong provision in the order, will not make that order under that provision. The same principle would apply to the present case. The two notifications read together leave little room for doubt that the Industrial Tribunal was constituted here to adjudicate industrial disputes and that the reference in the present case was made to that Tribunal for the adjudication of the dispute existing between the present parties. It is immaterial that in the notification of the Chief Commissioner, Section 12(5) of the Act was mentioned and not Section 10(1)(c). It would certainly have been much better if the notification had been in the fashion of the notifications of the Bombay Govt. and the Central Government in which Section 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act had been referred to, and in which it was also mentioned that the matters in dispute, which were referred to the Industrial Tribunal for adjudication were specified in an Annexure. But an omission to do so would not make the reference invalid. The decision in The Kandan Textiles Ltd., versus The Industrial Tribunal (1), Madras and other, reported in the Indian Factories

Journal (Reports), 1949-50, at page 217, relied upon by learned counsel for Mill Owners would not apply to the facts of the present case. Here the employees had given their notice of demand to the Mill Owners and had threatened with a strike if their demands were not satisfied within a certain time. The matter did not rest there. The Conciliation Officer intervened and tried to bring about an amicable settlement but failed. He reported the matter.

Government and the Chief Commissioner felt satisfied that a dispute exists and that the case was fit to be referred to the Industrial Tribunal. Unlike the facts in Andam Textiles Ltd., there is ample material in the present case to show that there exists a real dispute between the parties, which has been referred to this Tribunal for adjudication. Whether any of the contingencies referred to in the section had truly arisen or not was a matter for the exclusive consideration of Govt., and nothing satisfied as to the arising of the contingencies Govt. could make the reference in their discretion. It is not open to any Court to question the action of Govt. in making the reference which is an exclusive action, except in one particular, namely, compliance with the formalities prescribed by the law. In the present case, there has been sufficient compliance with the formalities prescribed by law.

10. Reliance is placed by learned counsel for the Mill Owners upon the following observations made by Mr. Justice Horwill and Mr. Justice Rajagopalan in AIR 1949 Madras 616, at page 617:—

"In view of our agreement with the learned Judge that the reference made by the Government in this case was not competent because of the generality of the application of the notification, it is unnecessary for us to consider the other question whether the notification is bad because it does not specify the actual nature of the disputes between the managements and workers. It, however, seems to us that if a dispute is to be referred to a Tribunal, the nature of the dispute must be set out just as it would if a reference were made to arbitration in an ordinary civil dispute. The Tribunal, like any other arbitrator, can give an award on a reference only if the points of reference are clearly placed before it. It may be true that it is impossible, and perhaps undesirable, that a reference by the Govt. should contain a great deal of detail; but there should be sufficient specification, in our opinion, for the Tribunal to know what the matter is into which it is necessary to enquire and to give an award. If that is not done, the Government is inviting workers and managements to put forward claims which have never been in dispute, and which were not in the contemplation of the Govt. when they issued the notification. It seems to us from the general purport of the Act, that a responsibility lies upon the Govt. of considering the existence and the nature of the dispute and to exercise their mind and decide whether it is necessary to refer that dispute to a Tribunal for an award. Although it is not necessary for us to give a definite finding on this point, yet it seems clear to us that in a reference by the Govt. under Section 10(1) it is most desirable that the Govt. should state what points they consider are in dispute and should be adjudicated upon by the Tribunal."

It is on the strength of this passage that it has been urged on behalf of the Mill Owners that since the notification by the Chief Commissioner does not state what points are in dispute which should be adjudicated upon by the Tribunal, the notification and the reference are bad. It must be mentioned, however, that the observations quoted above, are in the nature of an obiter. The point came up before Their Lordships of the Federal Court in the India Paper Pulp Co., Ltd., vs. The India Paper Pulp Workers' Union—(AIR 1949 Federal Court 148). At page 119 of the report, Their Lordships while examining the notification that was issued in connection with that industrial dispute observed that although that notification was far from satisfactory and was not carefully drafted, Section 10(1) of the Industrial Disputes Act of 1947 does not require that the particular dispute should be mentioned in the order and that it is sufficient if the existence of the dispute and the fact that the dispute is referred to the Tribunal are clear from the order. On the strength of this decision of the Federal Court, it must, therefore, be held that the notification of the Chief Commissioner is not defective on the score that it does not specify the particulars of the dispute. The notifications of the Chief Commissioner, as I have already said, have to be read as a whole and they determine that the dispute between the parties was referred to the Industrial Tribunal for adjudication. The conditions necessary for a valid reference having been fulfilled, the Industrial Tribunal gets the necessary jurisdiction to decide the dispute thereby. In my opinion therefore, the contention raised by the Mill Owners in these two issues has no substance.

11. The notification dated the 11th May 1949 by which the earlier notification of the 29th of September 1948 was amended by substituting my name in place of Mr. Ramabhadran was within the four corners of Section 8, sub-clause (2) of Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. That section says that where a Court or Tribunal consists of one person only and his services cease to be available, the appropriate Government shall appoint another independent person in his place and the proceedings shall be continued before the person so appointed. This notification cannot in my opinion, be assailed. For the reasons mentioned above, I would hold that the reference of the dispute to this Industrial Tribunal was neither illegal nor ultra vires, that the notifications in question, and particularly the notification of reference, sufficiently complied with the formalities of law and are not defective and that the conditions necessary for a valid reference having been fulfilled, the Industrial Tribunal gets the necessary jurisdiction to decide the dispute thereby.

12. After having disposed of the two preliminary issues Nos. (1) and (2) by an order dated the 9th of November 1949 whereby I held that the reference of the dispute to this Industrial Tribunal was neither illegal nor ultra vires and that the notifications in question, and particularly the notification of reference, sufficiently complied with the formalities of law and are not defective, and that the conditions necessary for a valid reference having been fulfilled, the Industrial Tribunal gets the necessary jurisdiction to decide the dispute thereby, I proceed to examine the various demands made by the employees of the three Mills and refuted by the Proprietors. These demands are contained in the notices served by the employees over the Proprietors before the reference was made, and also in their written Statements submitted before this Tribunal. The demands made by the Textile Labour Union are these:—

- (1) Basic wages should be Rs. 35/- per month and average pay Rs. 55/-;
- (2) Standardisation of work and wages;
- (3) Dearness Allowance should be fixed according to Index Number on flat rate system. Taking 1939 as basic year, the Dearness Allowance should be fixed at 74/- annas per point;
- (4) Standing orders should be altered as suggested;
- (5) Compensation should be paid for all those machines which remained closed on account of bad or insufficient material in 1948;
- (6) Wages be paid monthly instead of weekly;
- (7) Reinstatement of the workers, who have been discharged.

13. The demands of the Rashtriya Mill Mazdoor Sangh, Beawar are these:—

- (i) Fixing up Rs. 35/- per month as the minimum basic wage of the lowest paid worker and relative increment to all category of workers, including piece workers, rates of wages payable to all classes of workers and all classes of work should be revised and standardised to secure a living wage standard and ensure a proper remuneration in suitable recognition of the strain and skilled required in different processes in the industry;

- (ii) Dearness Allowance should be paid at the flat rate of Rs. 50/- per month per worker with provisions to increase or decrease along with rise or fall in price. Dearness should be paid separately on a different date;
- (iii) Unconditional and lump amount payment equal to one-fourth of the total earnings in a year, i.e. three months' earnings including Dearness Allowance, as Bonus;
- (iv) Increase of 25 per cent in piece work rates following the reduction in working hours from 10 to 8 hours;
- (v) Removal of over-riding and arbitrary powers of the Mill management from the standing orders so as to bring them in consonance with the Central legislation;
- (vi) Workers in night shift should be paid 15 per cent. extra as night shift allowance on the basic wage;
- (vii) For every hour of overtime work, a worker should be paid at the rate of two hours' earning.

14. The demands of the Employees' Association, Beawar, as contained in their written statement are these:—

- I. Minimum basic wage of a clerk be fixed at Rs. 55/- per month with the grades and scales as formulated in the Written Statement.
- II. An increase in the basic wage dependent upon the length of service;
- III. Each employee should be entitled to Rs. 45/- per month as Dearness Allowance. This Dearness Allowance should vary according to fluctuations in the cost of living index;
- IV. The employees should be entitled to Provident Fund facilities;
- V. Working hours should not be more than 6½ hours a day;
- VI. An employee working beyond the usual working hours should be paid at the rate of double the wages for normal working;
- VII. In addition to one month's leave granted to an employee with pay as at present, casual leave of 15 days in a year be also allowed to him and sick leave should be granted on half pay if the employee is not entitled to his one month's leave and casual leave, and privilege leave on one month for 11 months' service with accumulation facilities for three months be allowed;
- VIII. No employee should be penalised for becoming a member of the Association;
- IX. The benefits to be conferred by this Tribunal should be made available from the 1st of October 1948.

15. These demands have been controverted by the Mill owners on the ground that most of them are barred by the principle of res judicata because in certain prior adjudications, they were not allowed. It has further been urged by the Mill Owners that the demand for the fixing of a "basic wage" and for "standardisation of wages and work" cannot be adequately adjudicated upon by this Tribunal because of want of suitable material and because of other difficulties; that the present payments of wages and Dearness Allowance and Bonus are sufficient to compensate the rise in prices of essential commodities; that any further increase in wages and allowances would cast a heavy burden on the industry which it would not be possible for the industry to bear; that it is not within the scope of this Tribunal to amend or alter the standing orders; that the present standing orders were settled and certified by the Certifying Officer after hearing such objections as the parties chose to produce that the employees did not choose to prefer any appeal against those standing orders and consequently the law does not permit the employees to move the Tribunal to effect any change in the same; that the demand for compensation for closure of machines in 1948 on account of bad or insufficient raw material is vague and indefinite and cannot be granted; that the demand for monthly payment instead of weekly is also baseless because only very few daily wage earnings are paid weekly for their own convenience and such daily wage earnings cannot be put on monthly basis; that the demand for reinstatement of workers said to have been discharged is also vague and indefinite; that the demand of Rs. 50/- per month per head as Dearness Allowance is exorbitant; that there being no index numbers available for Beawar, the increase and decrease in the Dearness Allowance according to rise and fall of prices would not be feasible; that the demand for payment of Dearness Allowance on different dates than wages has no sense or material advantage to the worker; that payment of bonus is always ex gratia and depends on profits of the industry in a particular year, and such payment cannot be made a permanent financial obligation on an industry the profits of which are always uncertain; that working hours have been reduced from nine to eight at the request of the workers themselves and they are not entitled to demand any increment on that score; that night shift workers are not entitled to any enhanced rate and their demand to that effect had previously been refused by earlier awards; that the demands made by the Employees' Association are also not tenable on the same score, and that the employees are not entitled to any relief. Upon these points the following issues Nos. (3) to (16) were framed:—

- (3) What should be the minimum basic wage of the lowest paid worker and of other category of workers including piece raters, and what should be the grades and scales?
- (4) On what basis should Dearness Allowance be fixed and what should be the rate?
- (5) What, if any, should be the bonus in the year?
- (6) Do the standing orders need any, if so, what change and alterations?
- (7) Should any, if so what extra allowance be given on the basic wage to night-shift workers?
- (8) Should any, if so what payment be made for overtime work and to what category of workers?
- (9) Should wages be paid monthly instead of weekly?
- (10) Is the demand for the reinstatement of discharged workers sustainable?
- (11) Can any interim relief be granted? Is the demand for interim relief beyond the scope of adjudication?
- (12) Should the employees, if so, what category of them be entitled to Provident Fund facilities and under what terms and conditions?
- (13) What should be working hours of the clerks?
- (14) What should be the leave rules?
- (15) Whether the demands made by the claimants are vague and indefinite and whether they cannot be granted for reasons specified by the owners of the Mills in their replies?
- (16) Whether the three Mills ever remained close in 1948 on account of bad or insufficient raw material and whether the workers are entitled to any, if so, to what compensation?

16. The dispute between the parties had once been referred by the Chief Commissioner, Ajmer-Merwara, by his order No. A/12-22, dated the 10th of August 1946 under rule 81(a) of the D.I.R., read with Government of India Department of Labour Notification No. L-30005, dated the 26th May 1942, to the adjudication of Mr. G. L. Dhanopiya, who gave his award (Ex.M.O.79) on the 10th of October 1946. Recommendations made by Mr. Dhanopiya were in force for sometime. The employees having been aggrieved with the increase in emoluments so recommended, again joined with the employers and referred their disputes to the arbitration of Pt. Mukat Bihari Lal Bhargava and Pt. Mahesh Datt Bhargava, who by their award (Ex.M.O.42), dated the 21st of March 1948 granted them certain more concessions. The agreement of reference by which the matter was referred to Pt. Mukat Bihari Lal Bhargava and to his colleague, provided that the award which will be made by them will be binding on both the parties for a period of six months and shall continue to be binding on the parties after the expiry of the period aforesaid until the expiry of two months from the date on which notice in writing of an intention to terminate the settlement is given by one of the parties to the other party or parties. The present reference is the third reference of its kind which has been made to this Tribunal. As against the demands now made, the objection has been raised to the effect that their consideration, in view of the prior awards, is barred by the principle of res-judicata. In cases like the present there is in my opinion no room for the application of the principle of res judicata. The identity of the cause of action is essential for the application of such a principle. Any change in circumstances however little and governing a period other than the one governed by the previous awards will rule out the application of the principle of res judicata.

17. Issue No. (3). The first question which has got to be considered is whether in the circumstances of the case this Tribunal is in a position to fix minimum "basic wages" for the various professions and occupations that exist in the textile industry. In order to fix basic wages, we must first adopt a basic period and then investigate into the minimum cost of living. Further, keeping in view the number of persons employed in the various occupations and the capacity of the industry, as also the standards adopted elsewhere in similar industry, we must first determine the "basic wage" of the man on the lowest rung of the ladder and proceed to equate and determine the relationship between the various occupations involved. We must further determine a variable margin described as Dearness Allowance which should be consistent with a just and fair neutralisation of the difference between the cost of living and the minimum basic wage during the basic period and then to lay down such a scheme as would permit adequate play for fluctuations due to the rise and fall in the cost of living. A scheme for "standardisation of wages" with or without an increase in "basic wages" involves highly technical and complex questions about the strain caused and skill excepted in the numerous processes and working on the machines in the Spinning and Weaving Departments of the industry and it is therefore impossible for us to formulate any scheme without the aid of experts on the subject. The question therefore is whether any expert is available and can be taken for standardisation of wages inclusive of increase of basic wages, if any, for the employees of the Cotton Textile Mills in Beawar after collecting such documentary evidence as they would require for that purpose on the analogy of the appointment of assessors under the Industrial Court Regulations of Bombay. To find out at Ajmer or Beawar assessors having considerable experience of the technical working of the textile industry in Beawar is not an easy task. No such assessor has been suggested or named by any of the parties. Moreover, we cannot draw upon the analogy of Bombay rules, because here we are governed by a different set of rules altogether. Regulation VIII of the Industrial Court Regulations, 1947, applicable to Bombay under the Bombay Industrial Relations Act No. XI of 1947 provides that the Court may, with the approval of the President in any matter in which it appears expedient to do so, call in the aid of one or more assessors, and it may settle the matter wholly or partly with the assistance of such assessor or assessors. There is no such analogous rule applicable to this province. The only rule which could be attracted here is the rule contained in Section 11(5) of the Industrial Dispute Act No. XIV of 1947. That section says that with the consent of all parties to the dispute, a Court or Tribunal may, if it so thinks fit, appoint one or more persons as assessors to advise in the proceedings. In the present case, there is neither any evidence sufficient in detail to determine basic wage, taking 1939 as the basic period, or to determine any scheme of standardisation; nor is there adequate machinery for the compilation of essential statistics; nor have the parties commonly consented to any particular assessor or assessors being appointed for the purpose. In the prior adjudications the basic year was not taken as 1939 because no proper statistics for that year were placed before the adjudicators. The same feature is to be found in the present adjudication. The only statistics maintained for Beawar are the prices of certain commodities recorded in the Tehsil. They only show the comparative cost of staple foodgrains and not the cost of other essential articles. The question of fixation of the basic wage is made enormously difficult by the state of the industrial development in the province of Ajmer-Merwara and by the unsteady and frequent fluctuations in prices. Any action to secure fixation of basic wage is hardly possible until prices become established or until full and proper statistics are collected in respect to any basic year. Moreover, any award that may be made by this Tribunal shall, in view of Section 19 of the Industrial Disputes Act 1947, remain in operation for such period not exceeding one year as may be fixed by the Government. In view of the limited scope of this enquiry any attempt to settle a matter affecting the parties on a more lasting basis would therefore hardly be justified. I would therefore decline to make any attempt to fix any minimum basic wages or any scheme of standardisation. I would however invite the attention of the Provincial Government to the observations made by the last adjudicators in their award to the urgency, imperative need and desirability of taking early measures to set up machinery for the determination of "basic wages" for the textile industry of Ajmer-Merwara in accordance with the Minimum Wages Act No. XI of 1948 and to include the "textile industry" amongst the scheduled employments under the Act.

18. Though it may not be possible to fix any basic wage in these proceedings, it does not follow that the workmen should not be immediately relieved if they are faced with a real and substantial grievance in the matter of proper maintenance of themselves and of their family. A discontented, under-paid and under-fed mind hardly promises life much less vigour; and in a well-ordered social structure, adequate compensation must be secured to labour for his work so as to expect that mental satisfaction from him and that maximum out-put which the state may demand of him. The real question underlying the demand of the workman is that the cost of living has risen and unless he is given a minimum of living wage regardless of work, it would be impossible for him to maintain himself and his family. To investigate this question we may proceed upon the basis, well-established in such industrial disputes, that the textile worker has himself to earn for a family consisting of himself, wife and two children, in other words, for three consumption units. An allowance for the earnings of wife can only be made if it is always or at least ordinarily possible for the wife to obtain suitable gainful employment. On this point the evidence furnished shows that in the vast majority of cases the wife is not in actual fact in any employment. In view of this fact, we cannot for our typical family make any allowance for the earnings of the wife.

19. Instances have been cited of rates or wages fixed at other places in this industry by awards of Industrial Courts; but different places have different peculiarities and separate features of their own. Conditions prevailing in Bombay and Ahmedabad or at other textile centres cannot afford a sure guide for the fixation of wages at Beawar where the majority of the workers of the textile industry reside in and come from their own villages. The evidence that has been produced before me shows how

25. The question of Bonus need not detain us long. At present a bonus of three months' earnings is granted. It has been urged on behalf of the employers that bonus is always ex-gratia and depends on substantially heavy profits of the industry in a particular year and consequently such payment cannot be made a permanent financial obligation on an industry, the profits of which are uncertain, and consequently, further, the present circumstances do not warrant the grant of any extra bonus. The demand of bonus though not based on any legal right arising out of a contract, express or implied, has to be decided on broad principles of justice, equity and good conscience. The notion that bonus can only be claimed by the workmen if their demand is based upon a legal right founded upon a contract, express or implied, must be given up. The only just and equitable principle upon which the employer may be called up to grant bonus to the employees is to consider the amount of profits made by the employer in any given year and the general financial condition of the concern and its capacity to bear the additional burden of granting bonus without impairing the efficiency or injuring the business in any vital manner. The Industrial Court of Bombay in its award published at Page 155 of the Bombay Gazette Extraordinary, Part II, dated the 5th of May 1949, observed that the connotation of the term 'bonus' has not always remained the same and at the present time the conception that it is an ex-gratia payment has been clearly abandoned. In the award regarding the Mill Owners' Association, Bombay and the Employees of the Cotton Textile Mills, which were its members, (Reference No. 1 of 1946), it was stated that in the domain of industrial relations between employers and workers the rights and duties of the parties are not governed merely by civil law but by collective bargaining in the settlement of disputes arising out of demands made by one on another for more earnings, better conditions of work and increased production and that the justification for such demands as an industrial matter arises especially when wages fall short of the living wage standard and that the industry makes huge profits part of which are due to the contribution which the workers make in increasing production. Bonus in such circumstances no doubt serves as a temporary satisfaction wholly or in part of the workers' needs. Theoretically at any rate wages and Dearness Allowance should be the first charge on an industry. In "The Spirit of Industrial Relations" by H.S. Kirkaldy (Oxford University Press—1947) the author states at Page 101: "Profit sharing can never be a complete solution to the problems of industrial occupation because a living wage must always be a first charge upon the industry so long as it continues to operate and whether it makes a profit or not." Labour as well as the working capital employed in the industry both contribute to the profit made and both are therefore entitled to claim a legitimate return out of the profit; and such legitimate return, so far as labour is concerned, must be based on a living wage standard. It is, however, to be remembered that a claim to bonus might be admissible even if the living wage standard were completely attained. It may be stated that so long as the living wage standard has not been attained, the bonus partakes primarily of the character of the satisfaction, often partial and temporary, of the deficiency in the legitimate income of the average worker in an industry, and that once such income has been attained, it would also partake of the character of profit sharing. Owing to this dual character of bonus, it would be a mistake to regard a demand for bonus as a demand for profit sharing pure and simple.

26. Keeping in view the principles stated above, I am of opinion that the following increase in Dearness Allowance over the existing scale of Dearness Allowance, which would bring about a proportionate increase in bonus will meet the ends of justice:—

- (a) For wages from Re. 1 to Rs. 20 per month an increase of 15 per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance;
- (b) For wages from Rs. 21 to Rs. 30 per month an increase of 12½ per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance;
- (c) For wages from Rs. 31 to Rs. 40 per month an increase of 10 per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance.
- (d) For wages from Rs. 41 and above per month an increase of 7½ per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance.

27. This will, as I have already stated, bring about a proportionate increase in the bonus calculated on the basis which exists at present.

28. There remains the question as to the date from which this award will come into force. The employees had given their notice of demand to the employers on the 11th of January 1949 and the dispute was referred by Notice dated the 28th of February 1949 by the Chief Commissioner. In my opinion, the award should be made effective from two months after the date of notice, namely, from the 11th of March 1949. Learned counsel for the employers has objected to what he calls the giving of retrospective effect to the award. But if a date earlier than the date of the award is selected for the commencement of its operation, it would necessarily be given it a retrospective effect. Such action has been taken in both the Bombay and Ahmedabad awards. Reference in this connexion may be made to Industrial Court Reporter, 1948—October—December, Page 587.

29. Issue No. (6).—This brings us to the question as to whether the standing orders need any and if so what changes and alterations. The demand is opposed on the ground that it is not within the scope of this Tribunal to direct any change in the standing orders. The framing of the standing orders is envisaged under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, No. XX of 1946. Under that Act, it is only the employer who can move or take the initiative for the change or amendment in the standing orders. Section 3 of that Act provides that within six months from the date on which the Act became applicable to an industrial establishment the employer shall submit to the Certifying Officer the draft standing orders proposed for adoption in the industrial establishment. Sec. 4 of the Act says that the standing orders shall be certifiable under the Act. Section 5 provides that on receipt of the draft under Section 3 the Certifying Officer shall forward a copy thereof to the Trade Union, if any, of the workmen, or, where there is no such Trade Union, to the workmen in such manner as may be prescribed to give a notice in the prescribed form requiring objections, if any, which the workmen may desire to make to the draft standing orders. It further provides that after giving the employer and the Trade Union, or such other representatives of the workmen as may be prescribed, an opportunity of being heard, the Certifying Officer shall state whether or not modification or addition to the draft submitted by the employer is necessary to render the draft standing orders certifiable under the Act and shall make an order in writing accordingly, and that the Certifying Officer shall thereupon certify the draft standing orders after making any modifications which may be necessary. Sec. 6 of the Act lays down that any person aggrieved by the order of the Certifying Officer may appeal to the appellate authority, and the appellate authority, whose decision shall be final shall, by order in writing, confirm the standing orders either in the form certified by the Certifying Officer or after amending the said standing orders by making such modifications thereof or additions thereto as it thinks necessary to render the standing orders certifiable under the Act. It is therefore obvious that this Industrial Tribunal is not in a position to entertain the demand for making any changes or alterations in the standing orders.

30. Issue No. (7).—This issue covers the demand that workers in night-shift should be paid 15 per cent. extra as night shift allowance on the basic wage; and in support of this demand, it has been urged that the night

- (a) For wages from Re. 1 to Rs. 20 per month an increase of 15 per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance;

On the other hand, it has been urged on behalf of the employees that the Mills have made enormous profits and have paid up six times the paid up capital in the shape of dividends to shareholders, and the managerial commissions paid by them are also high, and they are debiting large sums to Depreciation Fund and that consequently they cannot resist the just demands of the employees to meet the high cost of living. The Report of the Committee on the Fair Wages has observed at Page 16 that "an industry which is incapable of paying the minimum wage has no right to exist, but an industry may be such that its continued existence is imperative in the larger interests of the country whether or not it is in a position to pay the minimum wage." The report further observes that in such a case "it is the responsibility of the State to take steps to enable that industry to pay at least the minimum wage". It appears to me to be perfectly equitable from the point of view of maintaining peaceful and contented industrial relations that a bare minimum of wages and dearness allowance should have precedence over other items of expenditure such as managing agents' commission and the dividends payable to shareholders. If the wages and dearness allowance paid at present do not neutralise the increased cost of living there should be no reason why the managing agents should not forego part of their commission and why the shareholders should not be content with dividends on a lower scale during the period under review. This view has the support of the award made in Gujarat Paper Mills Ltd. Vs. workmen employed under it, reported at Page 61 of the Industrial Court Reporter, January-March 1948.

21. It has been urged on behalf of the piece rate workers that at Beawar they are paid on the weight of cloth produced, which is five pies per pound, whereas at other places they are paid on yardage, and that consequently they are not well-provided for. It has further been urged that since the hours of work have under the Factories Act been reduced from 9 to 8 from August, 1946, the wages should bear a comparative increase to neutralise the effect of the reduction in the hours of work. Both these contentions do not appear to me to be sound. These questions were considered in the award made by Mr. Dhanopiya and were decided against the piece rate workers. The Mills at Beawar unlike the Mills at other places produce only coarse cloth.

Consequently if the piece-rate workers are paid by the weight, and if they get an adequate or living wage with due regard to all the factors, they cannot claim that they should be paid by the yard, or that a reduction in the hours of work should introduce a corresponding increase in their rates.

22. In the case of the clerical establishment of the Mills whose demands have been sponsored by the Employees' Association, the increase in basic wage and the fixation of grades and scales suffer under the same disabilities. In the first place, I have already held that in the present proceedings the materials are not adequate to fix any basic wage. In the second place, the scales claimed have not the support of any position or reliable evidence. In the third place, these scales cannot be laid down in an enquiry the result of which will be enforceable only for a year. And, in the fourth place, these clerks whose equipment and educational qualifications are far below those employed under the Government cannot claim any scales equivalent to those recommended by the Central Pay Commission or by the awards at other places.

23. To sum up therefore I find on Issue No. (3) that it is not possible in the present proceedings to fix any minimum "basic wage" for the lowest paid worker and of other category of workers, including piece-raters; nor is it possible, in the absence of proper materials, to chalk out a scheme of standardisation of wages with or without an increase in the basic wages because such a scheme involves highly technical and complex questions about the strain caused and skill expected in the numerous processes and working on the machines in the Spinning and Weaving Departments of the textile industry at Beawar. I further find that though it is not possible to fix any basic wage and grades and scales, the workmen should be granted relief in the form of increased Dearness Allowance and Bonus to neutralise the increase in the cost of living.

24. Issues Nos. (4) and (5).—This brings us to the question:—

On what basis should the Dearness Allowance be fixed and what should be the rate; and what, if any, should be the bonus in the year?

The Rashtriya Mill Mazdoor Sangh has urged that Dearness Allowance should be paid at the flat rate of Rs. 50 per month per worker with provision to increase or decrease along with rise or fall in prices and that Dearness Allowance should be paid separately on a different rate. The Textile Labour Union has urged that Dearness Allowance should be fixed according to Index Number on a flat rate system, taking 1939 as basic year and fixing it at four annas per point. The Employes Association has urged that it should be fixed at Rs. 45 per month and should vary according to fluctuation in the cost of living index. Figures of index of cost of living are not compiled for Beawar, and so the demand to link up the amount with such increase does not hold good. Dearness Allowance on a flat rate system can be determined in two ways, namely:—

- (1) By prescribing a fixed amount in relation to a range of wages lying between two points, e.g., Rs. 15 per month for wages between Re. 1 to 15 and another fixed sum for wages between Rs. 16 to Rs. 30 per month and so on and so forth; and
- (2) By prescribing certain percentages for various "wage ranges".

The second method is in vogue in this industry at Beawar. The main difference between the two methods is that in one the worker gets a fixed sum irrespective of his turn over or production provided he qualifies for the "wage range" whereas in the other he gets his Dearness Allowance in proportion to his output. In the case of time workers, who are paid on a monthly salary basis, both the systems would work equally well. In the case of workers on time-rate basis, the adoption of the first method is liable to lead to laxity and laziness and to hamper the average production. Considering the present state of events and the demand which the country may legitimately make overlabour in increasing the national wealth by increased output, anything which may be conducive to laxity and laziness must be deprecated. In the present critical times of economic crises the country needs maximum of effort and maximum of production in the minimum of time. The second method of prescribing certain percentages for various wage ranges should therefore be allowed to continue. I have already mentioned above that the cost of living has gone up nearly four hundred per cent. as compared to the standard of 1939. I have also mentioned above that from the point of view of maintaining peaceful and contented industrial relations, a bare minimum of wages and Dearness Allowance should have precedence over items such as managing agents' commission and dividend payable to shareholders. This is supported by the view expressed in 1948. Industrial Court Reporter January-March 64. In the present case, these concerns are not being run at a loss. Indeed they are making profits and are paying dividends and managerial commissions and are debiting sums to Depreciation Fund. It has been observed in Industrial Court Reporter 1948 April-June at Page 122 that the demand of the employees for a fair minimum wage has got to be met and if the industry is not able to bear the burden of such a wage the industry becomes a drag on the social and economic structure of the country and cannot be encouraged to survive. The Dearness Allowance now being paid must therefore be increased to the extent which I shall presently indicate in order to neutralise the high cost of living and the employers cannot be heard to say that the payment made at present is sufficient to compensate the high cost of living.

25. The question of Bonus need not detain us long. At present a bonus of three months' earnings is granted. It has been urged on behalf of the employers that bonus is always ex-gratia and depends on substantially heavy profits of the industry in a particular year and consequently such payment cannot be made a permanent financial obligation on an industry, the profits of which are uncertain, and consequently, further, the present circumstances do not warrant the grant of any extra bonus. The demand of bonus though not based on any legal right arising out of a contract, express or implied, has to be decided on broad principles of justice, equity and good conscience. The notion that bonus can only be claimed by the workmen if their demand is based upon a legal right founded upon a contract, express or implied, must be given up. The only just and equitable principle upon which the employer may be called up to grant bonus to the employees is to consider the amount of profits made by the employer in any given year and the general financial condition of the concern and its capacity to bear the additional burden of granting bonus without impairing the efficiency or injuring the business in any vital manner. The Industrial Court of Bombay in its award published at Page 155 of the Bombay Gazette Extraordinary, Part II, dated the 5th of May 1949, observed that the connotation of the term 'bonus' has not always remained the same and at the present time the conception that it is an ex-gratia payment has been clearly abandoned. In the award regarding the Mill Owners' Association, Bombay and the Employees of the Cotton Textile Mills, which were its members, (Reference No. 1 of 1946), it was stated that in the domain of industrial relations between employers and workers the rights and duties of the parties are not governed merely by civil law but by collective bargaining in the settlement of disputes arising out of demands made by one on another for more earnings, better conditions of work and increased production and that the justification for such demands as an industrial matter arises especially when wages fall short of the living wage standard and that the industry makes huge profits part of which are due to the contribution which the workers make in increasing production. Bonus in such circumstances no doubt serves as a temporary satisfaction wholly or in part of the workers' needs. Theoretically at any rate wages and Dearness Allowance should be the first charge on an industry. In "The Spirit of Industrial Relations" by H.S. Kirkaldy (Oxford University Press—1947) the author states at Page 101: "Profit sharing can never be a complete solution to the problems of industrial occupation because a living wage must always be a first charge upon the industry so long as it continues to operate and whether it makes a profit or not." Labour as well as the working capital employed in the industry both contribute to the profit made and both are therefore entitled to claim a legitimate return out of the profit; and such legitimate return, so far as labour is concerned, must be based on a living wage standard. It is, however, to be remembered that a claim to bonus might be admissible even if the living wage standard were completely attained. It may be stated that so long as the living wage standard has not been attained, the bonus partakes primarily of the character of the satisfaction, often partial and temporary, of the deficiency in the legitimate income of the average worker in an industry, and that once such income has been attained, it would also partake of the character of profit sharing. Owing to this dual character of bonus, it would be a mistake to regard a demand for bonus as a demand for profit sharing pure and simple.

26. Keeping in view the principles stated above, I am of opinion that the following increase in Dearness Allowance over the existing scale of Dearness Allowance, which would bring about a proportionate increase in bonus will meet the ends of justice:—

(a) For wages from Re. 1 to Rs. 20 per month an increase of 15 per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance;

- (b) For wages from Rs. 21 to Rs. 30 per month an increase of 12½ per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance;
- (c) For wages from Rs. 31 to Rs. 40 per month an increase of 10 per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance.
- (d) For wages from Rs. 41 and above per month an increase of 7½ per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance.

27. This will, as I have already stated, bring about a proportionate increase in the bonus calculated on the basis which exists at present.

28. There remains the question as to the date from which this award will come into force. The employees had given their notice of demand to the employers on the 11th of January 1949 and the dispute was referred by Notification dated the 28th of February 1949 by the Chief Commissioner. In my opinion, the award should be made effective from two months after the date of notice, namely, from the 11th of March 1949. Learned counsel for the employers has objected to what he calls the giving of retrospective effect to the award. But if a date earlier than the date of the award is selected for the commencement of its operation, it would necessarily be given it a retrospective effect. Such action has been taken in both the Bombay and Ahmedabad awards. Reference in this connexion may be made to Industrial Court Reporter, 1948—October—December, Page 587.

29. Issue No. (6).—This brings us to the question as to whether the standing orders need any and if so what changes and alterations. The demand is opposed on the ground that it is not within the scope of this Tribunal to direct any change in the standing orders. The framing of the standing orders is envisaged under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act, No. XX of 1946. Under that Act, it is only the employer who can move or take the initiative for the change or amendment in the standing orders. Section 3 of that Act provides that within six months from the date on which the Act became applicable to an industrial establishment the employer shall submit to the Certifying Officer the draft standing orders proposed for adoption in the industrial establishment. Sec. 4 of the Act says that the standing orders shall be certifiable under the Act. Section 5 provides that on receipt of the draft under Section 3 the Certifying Officer shall forward a copy thereof to the Trade Union, if any, of the workmen, or, where there is no such Trade Union, to the workmen in such manner as may be prescribed to give a notice in the prescribed form requiring objections, if any, which the workmen may desire to make to the draft standing orders. It further provides that after giving the employer and the Trade Union, or such other representatives of the workmen as may be prescribed, an opportunity of being heard, the Certifying Officer shall state whether or not modification or addition to the draft submitted by the employer is necessary to render the draft standing orders certifiable under the Act and shall make an order in writing accordingly, and that the Certifying Officer shall thereupon certify the draft standing orders after making any modifications which may be necessary. Sec. 6 of the Act lays down that any person aggrieved by the order of the Certifying Officer may appeal to the appellate authority, and the appellate authority, whose decision shall be final shall, by order in writing, confirm the standing orders either in the form certified by the Certifying Officer or after amending the said standing orders by making such modifications thereof or additions thereto as it thinks necessary to render the standing orders certifiable under the Act. It is therefore obvious that this Industrial Tribunal is not in a position to entertain the demand for making any changes or alterations in the standing orders.

30. Issue No. (7).—This issue covers the demand that workers in night-shift should be paid 15 per cent. extra as night shift allowance on the basic wage; and in support of this demand, it has been urged that the night shift workers have to work at odd hours and have to sacrifice social amenities and have to put up with inconveniences and also to sacrifice health. The night shift in all the three mills is from 4-30 P.M. to 1-30 A.M. with a break of one hour from 8-30 P.M. to 9-30 P.M. The demand is opposed by the employers on the ground that the production of the night shift workers is always less than the day shift and according to the timings at Beawar the workers get full rest and there is no justification for such a demand, that the workers of the night shift get sufficient opportunity in day time to occupy themselves in other occupations and thus implement their income further ; and that even in advanced textile centres no such allowance is granted. Taking in view the circumstances of the case, and also in view of the fact that a similar demand was made and was refused by the last award, I am of opinion that no case is made out for granting any extra allowance over the basic wage to night shift workers, and this demand must therefore be refused.

31. Issue No. (8).—This covers the demand for overtime work and been sponsored by the Employees' Association. They contend that the clerical establishment made to work after the usual working hours should be paid at the rate of double the wages for normal work including the Dearness Allowance. So far as the workers in the Mills are concerned, the question is covered by the statutory provision contained in Section 59 of the Indian Factories Act No. LXIII of 1948. It provides for extra wages for overtime work to workers. Section 2(h) of the old factories Act No. XXV of 1934 in defining a " worker " excluded a person solely employed in a clerical capacity in any room or place where no manufacturing process was being carried on. Section 2(1) of the new Factories Act No. LXIII of 1948 gives a change in that definition by omitting the exclusion which was contained in the earlier Act in the definition of a " worker ". The new definition would therefore cover the case of a clerk in the application of the provisions of Section 59 of the Act. Consequently, statutory provisions having been made about it, no question of an award is necessary on the point.

32. Issue No. (9).—The plea that wages should be paid monthly instead of weekly has not seriously been pressed before me. It is only casual labourers who are paid by the week and not by the month and in their case payment by the month cannot possibly be made. Such casual labourers do not most often work throughout the month or for several months in continuation. This demand is therefore refused.

33. Issue No. (10).—The demand for the reinstatement of certain discharged workers cannot be supported. Such demand was not included in the notice sent to the Mill owners by the Textile Labour Union. Under Section 22 of the Industrial Disputes Act the demand which was made before this Tribunal on this question was also vague. It only stated that the workers, who have been discharged ruthlessly, should be reinstated. The particulars of the workers, the date of their discharge and the reasons for their discharge were not at all specified. In evidence, however, four names were specified of persons having been discharged. They are Siddique, Malla & Pertab of the Edward Mills and Kalloo Singh of the Krishna Mills. There is another person of the name of Chhoga. Chhoga was discharged for negligence of duty after several previous warnings had been given to him and after due enquiry. Kalloo Singh was discharged during the pendency of the proceedings. The discharged hands have not been produced to make a grievance before this tribunal of the factum of their discharge. There was no victimisation of any of these persons and this Industrial Tribunal would be reluctant to pass an order of their reinstatement. Every employer has a large discretion in discharging or otherwise punishing his employees for inefficiency, negligence, dishonesty, insubordination or misconduct and so long as that is done in good faith and without any ulterior motive.

arbitrary conduct or unnecessary harshness, his discretion would not be interfered with. But the position would be different where the employee's conduct is provoked by the unfair labour practice of the employer himself. In the present case, there have been no victimisation, the demand for the reinstatement of these discharged hands is refused.

34. Issue No. (11).—This issue covers the question of interim relief. No question of interim relief would now arise in the case as I have already held above that the award which is to be made by this Tribunal should take effect from two months after the date of notice, namely, the 11th of March 1949.

35. Issue No. (12).—The demand for Provident Fund facilities has been made in respect of the clerical establishment. Their claim is that 1/16th of the total earnings be contributed equally by the employee and by the employer. In an enquiry of the present nature where any decision made the Tribunal would be effective only for a year, I do not think that an award over such a question should be made. It has been urged that the Government has already taken up the question of compulsory Provident Fund and since any decision which may be taken by Government would be binding upon the parties, this Tribunal should not give an award over the question of Provident Fund. Under the circumstances of the case, I am of opinion that no decision is called for or should be made over the question of Provident Fund.

36. Issue No. (13).—This covers the question as to what should be the working hours of the clerks. Their present working hours are 8 hours in the day. Their claim is that it should not be more than 6½ hours a day. The clerks have not made a grievance that they are called at odd hours. In my opinion, the present working hours should not be reduced.

37. Issue No. (14).—I now come to the question of leave rules claimed by the clerks through the Employees' Association. At present they are granted one month's leave with pay by the employers. On certain occasions this is even allowed to exceed, but there are no fixed rules governing leave. The claim that has been made by the Employees' Association regarding leave is to the following effect :—

- (a) Casual leave for 15 days in a year.
- (b) Privilege leave for one month for every 11 months' service with facilities to accumulate it up to a maximum of three months ;
- (c) Sick leave on half pay if the employee is not entitled to any Privilege Leave or Casual Leave.

38. This demand is opposed by the employers on the ground that the textile industry cannot afford to grant all this leave without detriment to work and without casting an additional burden over the Industry. I considered the matter in its true perspective and following the award of the Industrial Court, Bombay in Reference No. 43 of 1947 and 17 of 1948 published in the Bombay Gazette, Extraordinary, Part I, dated the 28th of October 1948, Page 4772 at page 4780, I would award the following leave to the clerks :—

- (a) Casual Leave for 15 days in a year.
- (b) Privilege leave of one month in a year i.e., for every completed period of 12 months with full pay and allowances, the said leave to be accumulated upto a total period of three months, but the actual period to be granted to depend on the exigencies of the employers ;
- (c) One month's Sick Leave in each year of service subject to a maximum of 12 months in all during the whole service. Sick Leave can be granted only on a certificate of a registered medical practitioner provided that the Mill may require the applicant to be examined.

ed by its own medical Officer at its expense if it thinks necessary to do so. Sick Leave may not be granted if Privilege Leave is available. Sick Leave shall be granted on half pay.

39. Issue No. (15).—The plea that the demands made the claimants, are vague and indefinite and they cannot be granted for reasons specified by the owners of the Mills in their replies has not been pressed before me in arguments. I would therefore answer this issue in the negative.

40. Issue No. (16).—This covers the question as to whether the Mills ever remained closed in 1948 on account of bad or insufficient raw material and whether the workers are entitled to any, if so, to what compensation. Standing Order 15 says that it shall be in the discretion the Mills to stop any machine or machines or close any department or departments wholly or partially on the happening of an emergency, accident, fire, civil commotion, catastrophe or any other event beyond its control for any period or periods without notice, that in the event of such stoppage during working hours, the workmen, affected shall be notified by notices put upon the Notice Board in the Department concerned or at the notice of the Manager as soon as practicable when work will be resumed and whether they are to remain or leave their place of work, that the workmen shall not ordinarily be required to remain for more than two hours after the commencement of the stoppage and that if the period of detention does not exceed one hour the workmen so detained shall not be paid for the period of detention, that the detention exceeds one hour the workmen so detained shall be entitled to receive wages for the whole of the time during which they are detained as a result of the stoppage, that in the case of piece-rate workers, the average daily earnings for the previous month shall be taken to be the daily wage, that no other compensation will be admissible in case of such stoppages and wherever practicable reasonable notice shall be given of resumption of normal work. In the present case, the evidence does not show that work remained closed in 1948 on account of bad or insufficient raw material or on account anything which was within the control of the Mill owners to rectify. There is no data before this Industrial Tribunal to show the exact time of stoppage and the exact amount of compensation. Moreover if there is shortage of material due to reasons beyond the control of the Mill Owners, they cannot be made responsible for any compensation. This demand must therefore be rejected.

41. This disposes of all the issues arising in the case. Before I conclude this award, I must remind the employees as well as the employers that they owe it more now than ever before to look to the general good and to the advancement of the cause of the country. As it is the bounden duty of the employers to look to the welfare of the workers, it is equally the duty of the workers to realize that they have to work for the common cause, for the advancement of the country and they must unite and narrow down all their differences at the earliest opportunity. The largest interest of the country could be placed by them above their own interest consistently with the principles discussed in this award. The workers must realize that the country demands more at present than ever before harmonious and less discordant relations on their part with their employers. Conditions at present may not permit the employees to realize completely their aspirations as quickly as they desire that they must bear in mind that happy and cordial relations between the employer and the employee and the maximum effort for production are sine qua non not only for the progress of the country but for their own progress.

42. I must also acknowledge here the great help and labour which the counsel for the parties have brought to bear upon this complicated matter and for the generous assistance they have given to me throughout this trial.

43. The sum total of the award may therefore be summarised as follows:—

(a) The following increase in Dearness Allowance over the existing scale of Dearness Allowance, which would bring about a proportionate increase in bonus be awarded:—

- (i) For wages from Rs. 1 to Rs. 20 per month an increase of 15 per cent over the existing Dearness Allowance;
- (ii) For wages from Rs. 21 to Rs. 30 per month an increase of 12½ per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance;
- (iii) For wages from Rs. 31 to Rs. 40 per month an increase of 10 per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance;
- (iv) For wages from Rs. 40 and above per month an increase of 7½ per cent. over the existing Dearness Allowance.

This will bring about a proportionate increase in the bonus calculated on the basis of the exists at present.

The Mill authorities will exhibit at a conspicuous place on their premises a chart showing the various increase granted hereby viz., the amount awarded as Dearness Allowance and Bonus, showing analytically how it is made up. As this award will be effective from the 11th of March 1949, the Mill authorities shall within a period of three months pay up all the dues in arrears.

(b) The Leave Rules in respect of clerical establishment shall be as follows, and these rules shall be effective, in the circumstances, from 1st January 1950:—

- (a) Casual Leave for 15 days in a year;
